

FSL decoration with cross stitch pattern

The FSL decoration must be embroidered on a dense water-soluble stabilizer.

If your water soluble stabilizer is not dense enough, use two layers of stabilizer.

After the products are embroidered, the water-soluble stabilizer should be washed.

If it is a brooch or other product that must be tough and keep in shape, do not wash away the highly water-soluble stabilizer.

The product must then be dried. Sometimes you can use an iron, you need to put under the product and top a terry towel and iron it.

Then, according to your taste, the product can be decorated with beads, sequins, paillettes. And add hardware.

For a beautiful result, use the lower thread of the same color as the upper one.

Turn off automatic thread trimming to avoid a large number of knots. Cut the threads manually after embroidering each color.

You also can make from the details of this design different decorations: necklaces, earrings, bracelet and other to your liking.

For connecting individual elements, you must make small holes with an awl or a thick needle and use connectors for jewelry.

In order to connect the design elements between them, you must use connectors to make jewelry. Do the holes for the connectors by using an awl or needle.

Holes must be made by carefully push apart the embroidery threads without tearing them.
